Unless Frank James is unlike his kind before him, he will probably take the lecture field immediately after he is acquitted.

That tireless and edicient secretary of the Wisconsin state agricultural society, Mr. Clinton Babbitt, has sent a second dispatch to President Arthur renewing the invitation for him to visit the state fair. The president has not yet answered definitely.

The university christian association of the state university, will be glad to aid all new students in securing rooms, and boarding places. Members of the association will be present in room 2, university hall, on and after Monday, September 3d, to give all information desired regarding examinations, rooms, &c.

The Pennsylvania legislature has been in session 236 days, and 81 days in extra session, with no indication of an adjournment. It is the per diem of $10 that makes them hang together so long. If the pay was stopped, the session would break up in twenty-four hours.

An exchange says that it is estimated that $23,000 worth of wines and liquors have been corraled to supply the excursionists who are going to drive the last spike of the Northern Pacific railroad. As the party is limited to 250 gentlemen the size of the bust can be ascertained by a mathematical calculation.

The latest directions given to stock buyers are furnished by the Philadelphia Times: "Always buy only what you can pay for; always sell when the deluded lambs are buying; always buy when the panic-stricken lambs are selling. This advice need not be well shaken before taken."

There comes a report that Senator Edmund will, at the next session of Congress, introduce a government postal telegraph bill, and ask for its immediate consideration. It will be a great wonder if Jay Gould's methods of opertion do not defeat the scheme in congress. If the government can save itself from being swallowed by the monopolies, it will do a great deal more than many people think it is able to do.

The famous Yellowstone Park which is now attracting the attention of pleasure and sight-seekers in all parts of the country, embraces in its limits 3,575 square miles more territory than Rhode Island and Delaware combined. It is fifty-five miles wide and sixty-five long. It lies mainly in the northwestern corner of Wyoming territory, but includes a thin strip of Idaho on the west and Montana on the west and north. The lowest elevation in the park is 6,000 feet above sea-level, and its highest (mountain peak) from 10,000 to 12,000 feet. It is, therefore, an immense table-land, with a surface broken into mountain ranges, valleys, etc.

An American in Paris sends to a New York paper a description of the famous Bartholdi statue "Liberty Enlightening the World," which will soon stand in the New York harbor. The total height to the top of the torch is 157 feet; height from the heel to the head, 111½ feet; forefinger 8 feet long; 4¾ feet circumference at the second joint; finger nail 1 foo 1 inch by 10 inches; head 14½ feet high; eye 2 feet 2 inches; nose 5 feet 8 inches long. During the exposition of 1878 about 40 persons were in the head at one time. When erected 12 persons can stand on the torch above the hand at once. The total weight of the statue will be about 500,000 pounds, of which 200,000 pounds will of copper, and 300,000 of iron. It must be remembered also, that the whole is to be mounted on a pedestal 150 feet high, making the top then stand 307 feet above the ground.

The magnanimity of James G. Blaine is attested by the fact that in his forthcoming political history will be found an excellent portrait of his antagonist, Roscoe Conkling, and a very interesting chapter on the life and character of the great senator. In speaking of the two conspicuous rivals, the Chicago Journal gives a piece of interesting history as follows: "Blaine and Conkling entered the house of representatives at about the same time, and were the most conspicuous rivals for the leadership of the house until Mr. Conkling was transferred to the United States senate, and Mr. Blaine was promoted to the speaker's chair. It was prior to this, and while they were both on the floor of the house, that the famous personal encounter took place between these two intellectual giants which resulted in one of the most bitter attacks and retorts ever heard in that arena so noted for its angry debates. Mr. Conkling attempted to lord it over the gentleman from Maine and to treat him with that supercilious arrogance that he shows to all whom he does not like, and that embraces the great mass of the human race of both sexes; but he got such an excoriation for his pains that the smart of Mr. Blaine's merciless lash has kept Mr. Conkling angry for over twenty years. Maine got the better of New York in that contest by a large majority, and the old grudge has been apparent in Mr. Conkling's conduct ever since, and cropped out all through the proceedings of the last republican national convention."

BURYING THE DEAD.

Last Sad Rites Over Victims of the Late Cyclone.

Eleven Dead Laid to Rest---Total Number Killed and Wounded at Rochester--A Freak of the Wind.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 24.—A Rochester special to the Pioneer-Press says: Most of the present dead are entombed. At 4 o'clock p. m. hundreds of wagons and carriages were drawn up near the Cook house for the conveyance to Oakwood cemetery of the bodies, for which graves were dug a few hours previous. Eleven coffins were taken there, and the three hearses of the city made many trips. The announcement of the funeral had been made by printed slips, edged with black, and about three thousand people assembled at the cemetery. Between the hours of 2 and 6 every store, saloon, and office in the city was closed and the flags hung at half-mast. The cemetery, a beautiful spot, lies to the northeast of the town, across the Zumbro. The amount of damage done to monuments and trees by the cyclone has been very large, though not so great as first reported. The graves were in separate parts of the grounds, and the service held over each coffin was of the briefest possible character. The names of those buried at Oakwood to-day are as follows: Mrs. Weatherbee, Nellie Irvin, Mrs. Jerath, Mr. Osborne and child, Mr. Hetzel, Mrs. Fred Clough, Mrs. Quack and child, Mrs. Mahala McCormick. Mrs. Steele was buried in Byron and Mr. Cole in Winona. Thus far, according to burials, the dead in the city proper were as follows: Eleven buried in Oakwood, two in the Catholic cemetery, and four in Haverhill, also two in Byron, one in Winona, and one in Dodge county—twenty in all. Carl Quack died at 2 p. m. One child is held awaiting the arrival of friends, and two persons have not been found. One is a child, name unknown. The other is a woman who lived beyond the river and east of the Broadway bridge. The case of the Quack family is particularly distressing. The father died, and the mother and one child were taken out dead from the ruins. Six children, the eldest a boy of 12 years, lie ranged on cots in the hospital. The eighth is missing, but a Mrs. Roberts, who lives across the river, has a child 3 years old in her possession which is probably the one. When the other children recover, sufficiently they will doubtless be able to identify the missing one. As a brighter picture may be given the case of the Donahues, mother and ten children, not one of whom was hurt, though their house was crushed to atoms around them. It is more than possible that two or three more bodies will be found in the ruins when they are cleared away. No person escaped unscratched who did not take refuge in the cellar. Of those who did so, comparatively few were seriously injured. J. H. Chapman had just completed a vault for a place of refuge in his cellar, without which his family would certainly have been killed. A. K. Williams, who was dangerously hurt in the former cyclone, was in the train wreck at Owaonna.

On the grounds of T. A. Poole, opposite the court house, a curious freak of the storm is to be seen. A pine board about six feet long and four inches wide is driven endwise through the trunk of a maple tree six inches thick, and remains imbedded in it. Numerous narrow escapes from sudden death are reported. A farmer just in from Salem township says the destruction there is terrible. John Gillo, sr., and Andrew Johnson were instantly killed.

The total number of lives lost in this city by the cyclone is thirty-four; injured, eighty-two. Nine of the latter will die. With these exceptions all the wounded are doing well.

THE LOSS SUMMARIZED.

Specials state that the cyclone of Tuesday, which destroyed Rochester, swept over a territory sixty miles in length and about two miles wide, leaving in its path nothing but ruins. To form an estimate of the loss you only have to now value all the improvements in the track of the cyclone. All are gone. The loss in Rochester is now estimated at $350,000.

OUT OF WHOLE CLOTH.

Ex-Senator McDonald Repudiates an Alleged Interview.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—When ex-Senator McDonald of Indiana, passed through here a few days ago, en route from Deer park to White Sulphur springs, an alleged interview was telegraphed from here which represented the presidential candidate as standing in the main corridor of the Riggs house discoursing as to the political prospects and presidential candidates in particular. A special dispatch from White Sulphur springs says when Mr. McDonald was asked about the alleged interview he replied: "I stopped over in Washington part of one day on my way from Deer park to this place. Mrs. McDonald was with me. I missed the morning train to White Sulphur, and it was necessary to wait for the next train. We stopped at the National hotel, which was convenient to the railroad station at which we had arrived and from which we proposed to depart. I did not visit the Riggs house, and I had no conversation relating to politics with any newspaper correspondent or group of friends whatsoever. The remarks attributed to me are manufactured out of whole cloth. I have expressed no opinion as to Mr. Arthur's candidacy. I have expressed no opinion as to Mr. Tilden's candidacy. I have not been in New York for two years."

SWINDLING SOLDIERS.

A Specimen Case, and How It Could Have Been Avoided.

WASHINGTON, Aug 24.—One of the cases charged against Fitzgerald the pension agent is as follows: A soldier writes that the lost his discharge papers and wrote to Fitzgerald about it, who told him to send $5, which was sent; then a demand was made for $2, which was also sent, and after that 35 cents for postage stamps. After sending this the matter was dropped and not heard from. It might as well be known that any soldier who has lost his discharge papers can obtain new ones at the cost of three affidavits from those knowing the facts and 75 cents forwarded to the war department. In this case $7.35 is taken in advance, and from the time of payment the claimant has heard nothing from his attorneys.

A Terrible Mistake.

PAXTON, Ill., Aug. 24.—W. L. Morris, a farmer, living a few miles northeast of this place, having just sold his farm, had the money in the house, and as a precaution against robbery he placed a loaded shot-gun at the side of his bed when he retired at night. His nephew, about 12 years old, who was visiting him, had occasion to go out doors during the night, and in closing the door after returning it roused his uncle, who, in the darkness of the room, mistook his nephew for a burglar, and seizing the gun he shot and killed the boy instantly.

THEATRICAL TALK.

New Roles Projected for Zelda Seguin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The Abbott opera company has started out for the season well supplied with stars. They go straight to Des Moines, Iowa, where they open on the 27th, and remain until the 30th. The remainder of the week will be given to the smaller towns, one night at each place. The system of traveling companies now in vogue gives the whole country the opportunity of hearing the great singers and actors; something that could not be done in the days of stock companies. For that reason, in spite of all predictions to the contrary, those whose judgment ought to be final say that there can be no return to the stock system.

The Abbott company has really superior attractions this year. Tagliapotra, the greatest of all baritones, whose voice is divine melody, and whose oriental eyes are as liquid and expressive as his music, is with them. It is his first tour in English opera, and it has been years since he went over the states in a concert company. Then there is Castle, the good looking, sentimental tenor, Abbott herself, and Zelda Seguin-Wallace, the admirable and exquisite contralto, whose popularity increases continually, and wanes not. By the way, it is not known in professional circles or anywhere outside of Madame Seguin's immediate friends, but new and great roles are planned for this contralto for next season. A successful playwright, whose name is not to appear until the proper time, is dramatizing Oliver Twist for her. She will play in the title role, which will be made a singing character. The play will be entirely different from the milk-and-water dramatization of that name which has so long been before the public. The Sykes family are to be eliminated. Neither Nancy nor William are to appear. They never had any business to be the chief characters in a play called Oliver Twist, being but remotely connected with Oliver's history. The dramatization intended for Mrs. Seguin will be the refined interpretation of the book. Oliver will be rescued from the imbecility which distinguishes him in the present version, and will be given character, spirit, and interest. Bumble will be the big comedian, and Fagin the villain. That this can be made the greatest attraction before the public is not at all unlikely. The old dramatization catered to the element which loved bloody horrors above all other stage luxuries. Besides it was prepared to suit the actors who excelled in tragedy of that order. Now that the public has outgrown its taste for murder in the raw and veered around to the appreciation of gentler and sweeter romance, there is need for a new Oliver Twist, or rather the old one properly interpreted.

Still another character even more interesting and rarer is designed for Mrs. Seguin-Wallace next season. It is Richelieu, in Screebe's drama, "The Boyhood of Richelieu." The youth of the future cardinal was exceedingly eventful and dashing. Mrs. Seguin is a magnificent actress as well as a great singer, and her rendition of the young Richelieu will be a dramatic event of extraordinary interest. She has special talent for roles of this order. Those who have seen her as the dashing boy in the marriage of Figaro, and as Frederick in Mignon, know that in either Oliver Twist or young Richelieu she will give the theatre-going public something new as well as excellent. The plays themselves will be a welcome innovation in a field that has of late been overrun by weak creations too often rendered by still weaker actors.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

A French Aeronaut Dragged to the Clouds at the End of a Rope.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—At Royan, on the Gironde, M. Gratien, a well known aeronaut, was about to make an ascent in a hot air balloon called La Vidouvillaise last Friday. Mdlle. Albertine, the heroine of several balloon ascensions, was seated in the car, and M. Gratien was holding in his right hand a loose coil tied to one of the cords that served to attach the balloon. The air ship unexpectedly broke loose, and the cord, unrolling itself with lightning rapidity, caught in a sort of running knot around the first and second fingers of Gratien's right hand. The aeronaut was immediately whisked off into the air 600 meters high. In vain he tried to haul himself up on the cord and loop it over his arm. After frantic efforts he became exhausted, and hung at the end of the cord suspended solely by his two fingers, and suffering excruciating agony.

Owing to the jerking of the balloon the cord cut like a razor through the flesh to the bone. In that situation Gratien was carried to the distance of nearly four miles at the height of 600 meters above the earth. Mdlle. Albertine, overcome by the horror of the situation, fainted away and sank helpless to the bottom of the car. As the air in the balloon became cool it descended, but bumped against the earth in the midst of a dense mass of thorny shrubby. Gratien was not only stripped of his clothes, but his skin was literally torn in strips from his body as he was dragged for nearly half a mile through the thorny brambles. Some peasants finally managed to cut the cord.

Gratien appeared to be a mass of wounds, and to be near bleeding to death. Strange to say, he did not lose consciousness for a single instant. He suffered no internal injury, and although his condition is critical he will probably recover.

When the rope was cut and the baloon was freed from the weight of Gratien's body, it again arose in the air carrying off Mdlle. Albertine. By singular good fortune it soon landed in a marsh, and the lady at last stood on terra firma. She was sorely distressed in mind and badly scared but otherwise safe and sound.

Frank James' Trial.

GALLATIN, Mo., Aug 24.—The only event in the Frank James trail was the impaneling of the jury and the submission of the witnesses upon each side. The jury is composed entirely of farmers. They are said to be as good a body of men as could be selected. Politically they all vote the Democratic ticket. The defense seems to think that they have the best of it in the jury, and the sheriff is sharply criticised for his work in the premises, but there may be surprises all around. On the list of witnesses for the state is the notorious Dick Liddle, and for the defense the notorious Jim Cummings. It is said some of the bandit's chums made a weak attempt intimidating prominent witnesses.

A Fly Antagonizing the Gospel.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—Evangelist Weber preached at the Lakeside camp meeting one day last week. While expounding the gospel a wicked fly, supposed to be in the secret service of Bob Ingersoll, walked down Weber's throat and nearly choked him to death.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"Life of James Buchanan," Last of the Democratic Presidents.

LIFE OF JAMES BUCHANAN. Fifteenth President of the United States. By George Ticknor Curtis. In Two Volumes. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers. Price, cloth, $2.50 per volume.

One of the most striking figures in American politics was James Buchanan, the last of the presidents who received that office at the hands of the democratic party. His life and the history of the movements which led up to the civil war, appear in two substantial and handsome volumes of over 1,300 octavo pages, written by Mr. George Ticknor Curtis. When Buchanan took hold of the reigns of government the democratic party was in the height of its strength and influence. At the close of his administration, the party which, excepting for two short intervals, had ruled the country for forty years, went down before the new political organization, the republican party, which represented the growing movement in favor of the freedom of the slave, and upheld the principle of the indivisibility of the union. The collapse of the democratic party was followed by war. The slaveholding oligarchy of the south, which controlled that party, sought to gain by the bullet what they had lost by the ballot. It is for these reasons that this biography has a peculiar and engrossing interest.

Mr. George Ticknor Curtis was requested, and agreed, to write Mr. Buchanan's life. Mr. Curtis was eminently qualified for his task, and, as the biographer of Daniel Webster, had already made a close study of a portion of the history of the country with which a large part of Mr. Buchanan's public services were identified. The result of Mr. Curtis' labors we have before us in these two large volumes, just issued by Harper & Brothers. The author has employed the materials at his command with the greatest effect for the purpose of showing what manner of man Mr. Buchanan was in his public and private relations, the motives by which he was actuated, the principles he professed, the objects at which he aimed, and the position which he occupied among the great American statesmen of the past generation. Mr. Curtis' explanation of the situation of affairs at the various periods of Mr. Buchanan's career are clear and lucid in the extreme. The portion of the work which deals with the four years of Mr. Buchanan's administration—and especially the months immediately preceding Mr. Lincoln's accession to the presidency—is treated with much care, minuteness, accurate knowledge, discrimination and ability, and cannot fail to have great weight in determining the nature of the final judgment which shall be passed upon Mr. Buchanan's conduct of the government at that momentous crisis. Mr. Curtis does not hesitate to state that injustice has been done to Mr. Buchanan and expresses the belief that "nothing more than a proper examination of the facts is now needed to insure for him all the vindication that he could ever have desired."

Of course Mr. Curtis will not be able to convert many readers. He gives the best side to James Buchanan, rather shielding him from the attacks of his enemies, but even in doing this, the work is an important one, and will be read with absorbing interest by all who desire to study the history of the memorable four years just preceding the rebellion. It is a welcome contribution to our literature and will be well worth a place in any library. The volumes are printed in the excellent style for which the establishment of Harper & Brothers is noted, and are embellished with two fine steel engravings, representing Mr. Buchanan in his early manhood and in his old age.

Official Appointments.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24.—The president has appointed D. D. S. Brown, of Scottsville, N. Y.; George G. Wright, of Des Moines, Iowa, and William S. Furay, of Columbus, O., a commission to examine and report on seventy-five miles of the Northern Pacific railway in Montana. To examine forty-two miles of the same railroad in Oregon and Washington territory, the following-named commissioners were appointed: William H. Beard, Brooklyn; Richard M. Galloway, New York city, and Alonzo Bell, New York.

A Physician Shot.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Dr. F. R. Hudson, of Hoosick Falls, was shot, probably fatally, by Charles Osterhaudt. Hudson was Osterhaudt's family physician and refused to obey Osterhaudt's demand to go to his house, to attend the latter's wife, an invalid. Two shots were fired, one ball lodging in the spine. Osterhaudt escaped.

We believe that there is a large class of patent medicines whose ingredients are skillfully and conscientiously selected and compounded, and that they have been very useful in the domestic treatment of disease. We must come to this conclusion in precisely the same way that we come to the conclusion that a man is a skillful physician—by what they accomplish, and by the testimony of those who have used them. The reputation of a patent medicine is sustained by exactly the same evidence that supports a skillful physician's reputation. * * * Many of those medicines came out of the regular practice, and were prepared and originally prescribed by the best physicians. * * * Very few of them, we believe are humbugs and frauds in the conscientiousness or the intent of their makers. * * * The people, who are necessarily the judges, both of doctors and of medicines say that these medicines are not all frauds, and if human testimony is good for anything, that fact is established.—Scribner's Monthly.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 24.

A CAUSELESS CRIME.

Murder of the Pedestrian Noremac's Wife by His Barkeeper, Who Suicides.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Cameron, wife of George Cameron, the well known pedestrian, was shot and instantly killed in the presence of her children, at No. 466 Eighth avenue, by George Beattie, her husband's trainer and barkeeper, who afterwards committed suicide. Cameron's saloon is on the ground floor of No. 466 Eighth avenue, and his family occupied the third floor. Besides Beattie and two children, the household included James Barclay and William Campbell, who are boarders. A parlor and hall bedroom occupy the front of the floor; a dark bedroom comes next, and then a living room, from which a kitchen opens upon the right. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron were breakfasting in the living-room between 9 and 10 o'clock. Barclay and Campbell were sleeping in the dark bed-room. Cameron spoke about his wife's going out at night and a slight quarrel followed.

"Beattie has been telling you something about me, that's what is the matter with you," said the woman.

Without making any reply Cameron left the table, and as he stepped out into the hall he met Beattie, who passed into the living room. Cameron's son, Alexander, 6 years old, was with his mother until Beattie told him to leave the room. Exactly what conversation took place between Mrs. Cameron and Beattie will never be known. As she talked the woman set the breakfast table for the two boarders. From the confused statements of the child, who stood in the hall, it is supposed that his mother angrily reproached Beattie for the stories he had carried to her husband. In a moment two pistol shots in quick succession woke Barclay and Campbell from their sleep. Startled by the noise, little Alexander, pushed the door open just in time to see his mother fall at his feet. She breathed faintly once or twice, and then was still, a crimson stream pouring from her mouth and forming a pool upon the floor. At the same time Beattie staggered back a pace or two and fell heavily upon his back in the corner, diagonally opposite that where Mrs. Cameron was lying. A pistol was on the floor near his left hand, and a red stream gushed from a wound in his head just above the left ear.

The cries of the child brought the father to the room. The calamity had come upon him with such awful suddenness that for a moment he was dumb and gazed from one body to the other as though doubting the evidence of his senses. Then he seemed to realize all, and sinking to the floor besides the body of his wife he burst into heartrending sobs. The room was cleared, and he sat for some time in a chair with his little son on one knee and his 3-year-old daughter Jessie upon the other. I mechanically obeyed the summons of the policeman, and went with him to the station-house, where, in a voice broken with emotion, he answered the questions put to him by Sergt. Havens. His wife's name was Elizabeth Cameron, nee Edwards. She was, like himself, a native of Edinburgh, where they were married six years before the husband came to America. They have had five children, of whom but two were living. His wife was 28 years old.

So far as can be learned Brattie's charges against her were utterly groundless. Cameron could think of no motive for the act beyond spite and petty resentment. George Beattie was 40 years old, and unmarried. He served for twenty-two years in the British army, part of the time in India and Afghanistan. The weapon which he used is a handsome nickel-plated Pioneer five-chambered revolver 32-caliber, with a pearl handle. When it was found at his side but one cartridge was in the cylinder.

PADDY RYAN SHOT.

Report that the Chicago Pugilist Has Shot Himself.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—The Times prints the following:

Rumors were flying around town that Paddy Ryan, the pugilist, had been shot. All sorts of reports were immediately started, and it was impossible to decide if one or any of them were true. First, the noted man had been the victim of a bar room brawl, and had been severely wounded. Then came the report that he had attempted suicide. Hundreds of other contradictory stories were circulated among the class who associate with and pander to the representatives of the "sporting" fraternity, but when simmered down there was very little to the whole thing. He had been drinking in imitation of his friend and victor, Mr. Sullivan, of Boston, and, as every prize-fighter and man about town, had what is termed in the pariance of "the gang" a woman. This woman is an inmate of a disreputable house on Peck court, and styles herself Sadie Wasserman. Sadie has been on a spree also, and yesterday the rumor was circulated that she had committed suicide. Ryan learned of this reported public calamity and was correspondingly sad. Though he has a wife, the fighter cared something for the soiled Amazon, and, full of beer, he exemplified the saying of old Tacitus, "in vino veritas," and heroically placing a pistol to a non-vital part, fired. He was not hurt much, but he was injured somewhat worse probably than a punch in the ribs would have hurt him, and Johnny Files, another prospective prize-fighter, took his exemplar in charge and secreted him from public gaze.

A COMBINATION OF CALAMITIES.

Yellow Fever, Cholera, Small-Pox, Earthquakes, and Fish Showers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The surgeon general of the Marine hospital service has received a report from Surgeon Main, of Brownsville, Texas, from which it appears black small-pox is prevailing with great mortality in the towns of Tamacon and Purcefacon, Mexico, and that yellow fever is reported in Tampico and Panama. Black small-pox is prevalent in Guatemala, the victims being principally foreigners. There were 150 deaths from cholera in San Dionisio Oraca during the month and 477 deaths from yellow fever in Vera Cruz the same month, early in August. There was a shower of thousands of fishes in Monte Morels, and an earthquake at Patelka, causing twenty deaths and the destruction of thirty houses.

Fraudulent Land Entries.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The special agents of the general land office are daily reporting cases of the fraudulent entries of land, which are at once canceled. From July 1 up to date there have been canceled 131 entries and filings, embracing all classes of land, in nearly all the land districts. The largest number was in Dakota, but that is attributed to the fact that the greatest amount of land business is now in that territory. The cancellations are based on reports showing the original entries to have been fraudulent, or upon relinquishment, proving that there was fraud at the beginning. There is a large force of special agents, and the transactions at the land office are being closely watched.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

British, Canadian and German Notables Going West--Talks on Various Subjects.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—At the Grand Pacific hotel, this city, is registered a party of foreign notables, which, under charge of officers of the Canadian Pacific railway, is making a visit to the great northwest.

The party consists of about forty persons, and embraces several English stockholders who are connected with the nobility in Europe. The party will be absent about three weeks, and will visit the Rocky mountains. They left Montreal last Tuesday night on a special train over the Grand Trunk, thence over the Michigan Central and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul roads. Many of the foreigners took a trip to the stock-yards, and then rode out over the boulevards. The following is a complete list of the distinguished tourists: George Stephen, of Montreal, president; Duncan McIntyre and R. B. Angus, of Montreal, vice presidents; Hon. Donald A. Smith, of Montreal, and Mr. Pascoe du P. Greenfell, of London, directors; W. C. Van Horne, of Montreal, manager; his serene highness Prince Hohenlohe, of Langeberg, Germany; his serene highness Vice Admiral Count Gleichen, of London; the earl of Latham, Lord Elphinstone, and Lord Castleton, of London; his honor Lieut. Gov. Robitoille, of Quebec; Mr. George Bliss, of New York; Charles F. Smithers, president of the Bank of Montreal; Howard Potter, of New York; Hon. A. G. Archibald, ex-lieutenant governor of Nova Scotia; T. E. Kenny and T. B. Duffus, of Halifax; William Armit, secretary of the Hudson Bay company; Stovely Hill, M. P., Q. C., of London; Col. Kingscote, C. B., M. P., and Col. Egerton, of London, Col. Needham, 1st Life guards, London; Sir John Walrond, W. Donaldson, and A. McClellan, of Glasgow; Prof. P. A. Simpson, of the Glasgow university; J. B. Hamilton and Thomas Reynolds, of London; J. B. Sibbald, of New York; Hon. M. H. Cochrane, Senator, Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick, speaker of the house of commons, Ottawa; Hartland McDougall, Archibald Cassils, Charles Cassils, James Danes, H. Cutt, Rev. Canon Anson, and Hon. C. Anson, of Montreal.

A reporter visited a number of the gentlemen and found them willing to talk on various subjects.

Lord Castleton was asked: "What is to be the result of the crusade against American beef in England?"

"We must have American beef; it can't be stopped. The only trouble about it is that it is that it costs too much. It is considerably higher there than it is here. Average beef costs us about 26 cents a pound, and choice cuts from 36 to 40 cents. This is a little too high, especially as all other things are cheaper with us than with you. In walking about your streets I noticed the prices of clothing in the stores, and I see that they are what I should call exceedingly high. Boots and shoes cost a great deal, too, and all articles of furniture. This is on account of your tariff. You ought to have free trade. I think that after the west becomes more populous and more powerful in the government you will have it. It would be a great benefit to your agricultural and laboring classes."

Lord Elphinstone, a Scotch peer, said Englishmen were not agreed on the tariff question. As it was England gave free trade, but was shut out from many countries by protection, which was not fair. He said he favored a tariff on foreign manufactures. Speaking of the Irish question, he said the present treatment of Ireland, as reflected by Gladstone's rule, was an attempt to be conciliatory, but it satisfied nobody. The Irish would never bes satisfied. It was not their lot. As to any views of his own in dealing with the upheaval in Ireland and the disturbing element there, he was a naval officer and law was meant to be enforced and instructions were given to be obeyed. In the navy there was no temporizing. He had no sympathy with any half-way, short-sighted policy; and it was clear to be inferred that Ireland, in Lord Elphinstone's hands, would find that the British lion had sharp teeth.

Count Gleuchen is a brother of Prince Hohenlohe. He said he had turned his sword into a sculptor's chisel; was tired of war and wanted peace. Upon English politics he said he took enough interest in it "to know that Gladstone is playing the very devil with the country, and the sooner he gets out of it the better it will be for Great Britain."

"Home rule in Ireland?" said Col. Kingscote, commander of the bath, member of parliament, and equerry and master of the horse to his highness the prince of Wales. "Never, I should hope not. They would fight like Kilkenny cats. The Irish agitators are the cause of Ireland's sorrows. This interminable discussion would long ago have been at rest had men who are profiting off Irish agitators been put to rest. The only hope now for the Irish people is emigration and migration—emigration to Canada or migration in Ireland, taking them from one district and settling them in another."

A CLOSE CALL.

A Careless Switchman Nearly Furnishes a Railway Horror.

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 24.—The passengers on the brokers' express, running from Titusville to Bradford over the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio and the New York, Lake Erie & Western roads, had a most remarkable escape from an instant and horrible death. The train left Titusville on time, and when at Red House, a small station a few miles west of Salamanca, was running at a high rate of speed. At this point the entire train, through the gross carelessness of the switchman, was allowed to run through the switch. The locomotive bumped over the ties for nearly two rods, and was going at so high a rate of speed that a long and deep cattle guard was cleared as if by a jump. The train consisted of a baggage car, a smoker, and two coaches. All the cars were well filled. Before coming to the cattle guard the tender broke loose from the engine and, after running on the ties about thirty feet, capsized and rolled down the bank. The baggage car, when released from the tender, started over the ties and ran about 100 feet, coming to a halt in the middle of a public highway. The baggage master was thrown violently to the end of the car and buried under a heap of trunks and packages, but luckily escaped with only a few bruises. Every car left the track. The trucks of the tender and smoking car were forced into a bunch. All the trucks under the coaches left their places, but the cars did not capsize or even fall over on their sides. The passengers, aside from a severe shaking up and slight bruises, escaped uninjured. Under ordinary circumstances the list of dead and wounded would have been frightful. The track was torn up for a long distance, and for the present a temporary road will be built around the wreck.

Will Remain Vacant.

MADRID, Aug. 24.—The official organ, the Correspondencia de Espana, has the following: "The office of minister of Spain at Washington, now vacant on account of the death of Senor Barca, will not be filled for some months yet. In the interim, the legation will be put in charge of Dupuy de Lome, charge d'affaires."

Heavy Slaughter of Dry Goods at New York in an Attempt to Relieve a Glutted Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Pursuant to announcement, the auction house of Wilmerding, Hoguet & Co. began the largest trade sale of domestic cotton goods ever held in this country, the catalogue embracing 10,864 packages. The sale was made by order of the treasurers of several of the large manufacturing corporations represented by Messrs. George C. Richardson & Co., and included the products of the York Manufacturing company, Everett and Lewiston mills, and the favorite brands of Lawrence LL sheetings, Boott drills, Boott AL, M, C, QX, and Argyle fine sheetings. The attendance was very large. Jobbers from some of the more distant markets were not present in such force as at the last trade sale, but nearly every prominent house in the country was represented personally or by proxy. Many of the goods sold were specially adapted to the wants of manufacturers, and buyers of this class were present in goodly numbers. There was also a great assemblage of those interested in watching the course of prices, and the spacious auction rooms were crowded to their utmost capacity, in spite of oppressive warmth of the weather. There were several thousand cases of denims and of plain and fancy ducks, striped and plaid ticks, ginghams, dress goods, skirtings, plain and fancy coatings, cheviots, York I shirting, checks, Marseilles, sheetings and cottonades. The largest sale of this kind ever made heretofore in the world was on July 26 last, when the same auctioneers knocked down 12,000 cases to Fabyan & Co. The present sale was instigated by a glut of cotton goods in the market. The mills that sent the fabrics here have for a long time been running in full operation, and turned out a larger supply than there was a demand for. To turn their money and continue business, the manufacturers resolved to auction off their accumulated products. The regular market value of the goods to be sold was estimated at nearly $4,000,000. At least 1,000 bidders were in the room when Mr. Wilmerding announced that he was ready to sell. Most of them were New York merchants, but dry-goods houses in Chicago, Portland, Philadelphia, San Francisco, and other cities were represented. The largest buyers were Messrs. H. B. Claflin & Co., and a remarkable feature was the fact that their purchases were from one-eigth to one-half a cent lower than those of their competitors. Up to fifteen minutes past 1 o'clock, when there was an hour's interruption for lunch, only the denims were sold. They were put up by single cases, with in most instances a privilege of twenty-four more. After other bidders had bought the supply they desired, the agents of Messrs. Claflin & Co, would resume his starting bid and accept the remainder of the lot, whatever it chanced to be, and in that way he bought lower than any one else in the room.

Before asking for the first bid, Auctioneer Wilmerding introduced a member of the firm of Richardson & Co. This gentleman said that his house was placed in a peculiar condition. "It is," he added, "the first time in twenty-five years that through us the dealers in these goods have enjoyed the opportunity of absolutely fixing the price of the fabrics they want to buy".

Then commenced a slaughter in prices. The denims sold for from 25 to 50 per cent. under the manufacturers' prices. Everett blue was knocked down at 12¾ to 13 cents; Andover seconds of Everett, 12½ and 12¾ cents, Claflin & Co. taking most of the stock at the latter price. The new shade of the Everett slate went off at 10½ and 10¾ cents; Andover seconds of Everett, brown, 10¾ cents; the Everett plaid, 11 cents; the Everett check, 10¾ and 11 cents; Newport slate brought but 9½ cents; Essex seconds of Newport slate, 9 cents; Newport brown ¼ cent more, and Newport blue but 9¾ cents, the highest reached for Newport check, and York blue was a drug at 12¾ cents. The fancy stripes of the same manufactory, which have never been sold from the mills before at less than 15¾ cents, crashed down to 10¾ cents. The day's sales were all at these ruinous prices.

THE YELLOWSTONE PARK.

Rufus Hatch's Guests Treated to a Characteristic Western Scene.

LIVINGSTON, M. T., Aug. 24.—The Hatch excursion party arrived here and will proceed to Yellowstone park. The train will run as far as the road is completed, within six miles of the Mammoth hot springs, from which point the party will be taken to the park in stages. The probabilities are that the party will reach there in time to welcome President Arthur.

Baron Salvadore had letters to Count Demores, who figured in the recent killing of a cowboy. The count came to the Little Missoula station protected by four of his friends, while another one remained a little distance away, mounted and carrying a Winchester rifle. Frank O'Donnell, who was leader of the party which opposed the count, and the friend of the cowboy killed, appeared at the station at the same time. He was immediately covered by a rifle in the hands of the mounted man. O'Donnell approached Demores, shook hands with him, and said he had nothing against him. His utterances were scarcely believed, and every movement was closely watched. It is the opinion of ranchmen that if Count Demores remains at Little Missoula, sooner or later O'Donnell will kill him. The count says he intends going to France on a visit in a few weeks, and persons think he will never return. Senator Beck has passed through here, eastward bound.

DR. FISHBLATT

OF THE

Medical and Surgical

INSTITUTE

Late Lecturer and Professor in one of the leading medical colleges in the United States, editor of the New York Medical and Surgical Journal, consulting physician and operative surgeon in the New York Hospital for Chronic Diseases. Physician in Chief of the Medical and Surgical Institute of Cedar Rapids.

ON ACCOUNT OF HIS

Immense Practice

IN

Janesville, Wis.,

WILL MAKE HIS NEXT VISIT AT THE

MYERS HOUSE,

Wednesday, August 29th.

And Remain Two Days

When he can be consulted on

Deformities, Spinal and Chronic Diseases.

Dr. Fishblatt

Has discovered the greatest cure in the world for weakness of the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, paleness of sight or giddiness, diseases of the throat, nose or skin, affections of the liver, lungs stomach, or bowels,—those terrible disorders arising from solitary practice more fatal to their victims than the songs of the sirens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible.

YOUNG MEN.

Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, who might, if otherwise, entrance listening senates with the thunder of their eloquence, or wake to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

Marriage.

Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness (loss of procreation power, impotency,) nervous debility or any other disqualifications speedily relieved. He who places himself under the care of Dr. Fishblatt may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

Organic WEAKNESS.

Immediately cured and, full vigor restored. This affliction—which renders life a burden and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victim of improper indulgence. Young persons are apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands this subject will deny that procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both mind and body arise. The system becomes deranged, the physical and mental functions weakened, loss of procreative power, nervous irritability dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, constitutional debility, wasting of the frame, cough, consumption and death

---

A Cure Warranted.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders who keep them trifling month after month, taking poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately.

Dr. Fishblatt

Graduated at one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at certain sounds, with frequent blushing attended somewhat with derangement of the mind, were cured immediately.

Particular Notice.

Dr. F. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruins both mind and body, unfitting them for business, study, society, marriage. These are some of the sad, melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, namely: Weakness in the back and limbs, pain in the head, dimness of sight, loss of musical power, palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, nervous irritability, derangement of the digestive functions, debility consumption, etc.

INTERNAL HARMONY.

[George Meredith.]

Assured of worthiness, we do not dread
Competitors; we rather give them hail
And greeting in the lists where we may fail;
Must, if we bear an aim beyond the head!
My betters are my masters, purely fed
By their sustainment I likewise shall scale
Some rocky steps between the mount and vale;

Meanwhile the mark I have and I will wed,
So that I draw the breath of finer air,
Station is naught, nor footways laurel-strewn,
Nor rivals tightly belted for the race.
Good speed to them! My place is here or there;
My pride is that among them I have place;
And thus I keep this instrument in tune.

How "Spoopendyke" Reported an Agricultural Meeting.

Washington Republican.

It is an old story but good enough to hear repeating:

About the first newspaper work Stanley Huntley, the "Spoopendyke" of The Brooklyn Eagle, did, was on The New York Tribune, when Greeley was its editor. His maiden assignment was to report a convention of eminent agriculturists. It struck the newly fledged reporter that the delegates did not know what they were talking about, and he alluded to them frequently in the course of his report as a parcel of old women and idiots, who hadn't the remotest idea of practical agriculture. As he sat at his desk rounding out his report and filling in a few adjectives indicative of his disapproval of the proceedings of the day and the men who participated, he noticed a man at the other end of the room shooting copy through a tube into the composing room. When he was done, the man who had been feeding the tube was out of his seat, and the innocent Huntley fired his own matter to the foreman without submitting it to the man at the tube, who, as he afterward learned, was the city editor. The next day he was summoned before Horace Greeley, who opened out on him with a stream of profanity that made Huntley's hair stand on end. It was evident that the great editor was not pleased with the new man's effort, and the luckless author received a dressing down he never forgot. At the first break in the torrent of invectives that flowed from the good man's lips, Huntley ventured to ask if his report was not correct, and if the first duty of a reporter was not to state facts.

"Yes, of course, but you could have stated the facts without calling the convention a congregation of old idiots," and then followed more language in italic.

"But were they not a set of blanked old idiots?" timidly inquired the victim of the great editor's wrath.

"Yes, I suppose they were," he desparingly exclaimed, thoroughly exausted, and realizing the poverty of language in dealing with such a subject; "but blankety, blank, blank your fool soul, I was one of 'em myself. I was president of the meeting."

Telegraphic Matter.

Our latest correspondence, May 16, 1883, brings to us the narrative of Henry B. Ingram, the general superintendent of the District Messenger Co., of New Haven, Conn. Mr. Ingram says: "For many months I had been sorely troubled with a weak and tired feeling across the loins, almost invariably accompanied with a headache. I had noticed also that at stated periods following these pains my urine would be highly colored, and leave a heavy brick colored sediment when allowed to stand in the vessel. I could not work, and I was discouraged to an alarming degree. Nothing helped me. I was prescribed for by some of the best physicians in New York city, where I was located at that time, but derived no benefit or relief. When almost ready to give up in despair an acquaintance said to me, 'I want you to try Hunt's Remedy.' I did so, and hardly twenty-four hours had elapsed before I obtained relief, and in three weeks' time all the aforesaid ailments had disappeared, and I improved steadily, and was infused with new life, so that I could resume my business again, which is one that subjects me to strains of all kinds, which are likely to effect the kidneys, namely: Erecting telegraph and telephone lines. Hunt's Remedy now occupies the most honored place in my cabinet of medicines. I would not be without it, and I cheerfully recommend it to all who are troubled with diseases of the liver, kidney, or urinary organs. It never fails to cure."

33 CENTER STREET.

Town Clerk Forty-Two Years.

The following is from Mr. OTHNIEL GAGER, the well-known and respected Town Clerk of Norwich, Conn. Mr. Gager is 89 years old, and has held this position of trust for 42 years, and his word is as good as his bond. On May 5, 1883, he writes as follows: "For many years I have suffered with disease of the kidneys and bladder, and have no hesitancy in recommending Hunt's Remedy as a specific for these complaints. It has not only been the means of relieving me of terrible pain, but has cured a number of my acquaintances. To-day I am performing the duties of the office of Town Clerk, which I have held for forty-two years, which I could not be able to do were I not in a fair state of health owing to the use of Hunt's Remedy."

SALT AT SAGINAW.

Boring the Wells, Piping the Bore and Pumping the Water.

The Process of Salt Manufacture--Evaporation and Crystallization --Salt for Half the World.

Cor. New York Evening Post.

Alongside each of the omnipresent lumber mills that line the banks of the Saginaw river one sees little structures usually painted reddish brown and topped by a truncated steeple. Near Bay City they are grouped together almost as thickly as the derricks of the oil regions which, indeed, as to general shape, the homely towers much resemble. These odd structures are the pumping houses of the Saginaw salt wells; the blunt steeples cover the rods of the pumps, allowing them space for the up-and-down movement; and their closeness to the big saw mills gives them opportunity both to use cheap steam power and to economize fuel, which is supplied by the sawdust and cast-away slabs of lumber. Perhaps nowhere in the world do two great industries supplement each other more completely, and more literally "make the meat they feed on," than in the case of the salt and lumber works of the Saginaw region. The great log floated down from the remote headwaters is the unit of original energy which not only feeds its own fire, saws itself up, and works the adjacent salt pump, but also supplies cheaply the staves, hoops and barrel heads in which the salt is finally shipped away.

A salt well is bored by a simple device like an ordinary rock drill, from four to six inches broad, attached to ash poles, each some thirty feet long, fitted nicely together as the well progresses downward. When salt water is "struck" the well is piped like the oil wells of northwestern Pennsylvania, and the comparatively easy work of pumping begins.

QUALITIES OF THE WATER.

Next to the pumping-rooms, the first object to draw attention is a structure which, seen sidewise, suggests the sections of an East river dry-dock. But all the interior is filled with square cisterns set side by side, and covering a space say 100 feet long by half as wide. By rough estimate these cisterns are ten feet wide, thirty or forty long, and six feet deep. Some of them are almost empty, others pretty full of fluids of different colors; but this fluid is in all cases the water that has been pumped from the adjacent well a few hours before, and its varied hues are due to chemical changes caused by exposure to the air, and by the precipitation of impurities. In one tank the water is clear as crystal; in the next, it is of a tawny mud tint; then comes a tank where the fluid takes on the lustrous inky color of deep ocean water, and in a fourth cistern it is pea-green. Next go to the water as it comes straight from the well and flows purling from the rough wood trough connecting with the pump. Here the water is bright and sparkling as a mountain brook. Taste it. It is as bitter as wormwood, with an intense puckering savor, as nauseous as a strong fluid dose of quinine. All its saltness seems lost in the acid, sickening bitterness, which remains in the mouth long after the tongue has touched the fluid. In fact, however this taste, which seems bitter, is only saltness intensified. For the water contains more than ninety per cent. of all the salt that water can possibly be made to dissolve. It is rather more than ten times as salt as sea water—of which 350 gallons are needed for a bushel of salt—and at some wells twenty-five gallons of Saginaw salt will pro- will produce a bushel of solid salt crystals.

THE STEAM ROOM.

Finally we reach the salt works proper, or "block," as the local title goes, in which the water is evaporated from the solid ingredients and the salt product actually made It is an immense low building with a single compartment. Across it from side to side run vats about one foot deep, crossed lengthwise by a long set of planks, serving for a footway. From each vat pours out a volume of steam, filling the building with a thick, warm fog, so dense that the gaze can penetrate only a few feet. Pipes filled with steam run at the bottom of the vats, keeping the waters steadily twenty or thirty degrees below the boiling-point. The process of evaporation may be briefly described from its initial stage: First, the settled water from the cisterns is run into a set of vats where the temperature is raised to about 180 degrees. Then it is drawn to a second set raised to a heat ten degrees higher. Here the crystallization of the salt begins. The hot water presently begins to look more murky; next white flaky masses float on top, and gradually as they increase sink to the bottom. These are the salt crystals, which ere-long begin to form a white bed on the vat's bottom. They are allowed to gather and sink for twenty-four hours, when a workman shovels out the salt and draws off the vat, which is refilled to continue its work. The salt is shifted to a draining room, which, filled with the snow-white drifts, looks like a Yankee door-yard after a windy snow fall; then after drying, it is inspected and packed away, usually in barrels, to be shipped to marts all over the west. This process of evaporation, seemingly so simple, is one that exacts long training and experience, for on it the quality and fineness of the salt crystals depend. The workman must know precisely the degrees of heat, the proper moments of shifting and other occult points in the manufacture. Usually a little butter is put in the vats, and in some way aids in the crystallization. Many serious and sometimes fatal accidents happen at the vats. The footways are wet with steam, and workmen in not frequently slip to the hot brine below, which, though not at the boiling point, has the peculiar quality of inflicting instantly a terrible scalding burn, peeling off the skin, and making sores very hard to cure.

At some of the salt-works the product is "solar" salt, made by evaporation under the rays of the sun; and at a few it is boiled directly in pans placed over fire. The solar salt is finer than that made by steam or flame, but the principle is the same in all the processes.

SAGINAW SALT IN TRADE.

The growth and present size of an industry which has been established in this valley for but little more than twenty years is astonishing. In 1860 the whole product was but 4,000 barrels. Now the industry produces almost three and a half million barrels, with an invested capital of $5,000,000, and a yearly product worth between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. By the latest figures at hand the Saginaw region turns out about one-half of all the salt manufactured in the United States. The local cheapness of the salt is alone enough to testify to the wonderful productiveness of the valley. A barrel of alt holds 280 pounds, yet it costs here, barrel and all, only 70 cents, and in bulk the product is sold still cheaper.

The Garfield Statue.

Niehaus' model for a statue of Garfield for the state of Ohio is finished. It represents the statesman in the act of addressing an audience, standing erect, with the right foot advanced, the right hand thrust into his bosom, and the left grasping a glove, hanging easily at his side. At his feet are a scroll of books and a laurel wreath.

Perfect health depends upon a perfect condition of the blood. Pure blood conquers every disease and gives new life to every decayed or affected part. Strong nerves and perfect digestion enables the system to stand the shock of sudden climate changes. An occasional use of Brown's Iron Bitters will keep you in a perfect state of health. Don't be deceived by other iron preparations said to be just as good. The genuine is made only by Brown Chemical company, Baltimore, Md. Sold by dealers in medicines.

Mr. John Uphof, Franklin, Wis., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters and it greatly relieved me of rheumatism."

Dr. Jas. B. Mills, Saltmarsh, Ala., says: "Several of my patients have used Brown's Iron Bitters for chronic indigestion with benefit.

Chronic Diseases.

A Special Study for Years.

Dr. F. B. BREWER,

Has made Chronic Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Heart, Stomach. Liver, Kidneys, Nerves and Blood.

A special treatment for years. He is not a boastful, ignorant pretender, but an educated physician, seeking to do good, by devoting his talent and energies to the treatment of a class of maladies that have been with him a long and patient study. To be able to treat successfully chronic diseases it requires that a physician should be a sound, thorough scholar in the art of science and medicine generally. He should give his entire time to their study, be thorough in his investigations and have a long and varied experience. Dr. Brewer claims to work no wonders or to do any more than any well educated physician can do, who devotes his whole time to the study and treatment of chronic diseases exclusively, and has had his many years' of experience. For years Dr. Brewer has visited the the places he now visits, and has obtained his reputation by being honest in his dealings, candid in opinions and reasonable in his charges. Those who are afflicted are invited to call, investigate and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing to do so. Address all letters to Briefiets.

—Give Dillon a crowded house to-night.

—States Attorney at the opera house this evening.

—No criminal business in the municipal court to-day.

—Marshal Hogan and Officer McGinley captured an unruly drunk last night

—Rev. Jenk Ll. Jones will occupy the pulpit in All Souls church on Sunday next.

—There was a little scrap in front of the city building, on River street, at an early hour this morning, no blood shed and no one badly injured.

—Mr. Charley Wisch has secured the services of another excellent barber from Chicago, in the person of Phillip Schroeder. He is a splendid workman.

—At two o'clock this afternoon Mr. A. J. Glass, who has been very sick the past three weeks at his home on Pearl street first ward, was thought to be dying. He is very low and cannot long survive.

—Tarrant & Osgood, the popular west side grocers, have just received from the factory of Lagrange, Shottle & Co., one of the finest delivery wagons ever seen in the city. It's a beauty, and is another evidence of the success of the new firm.

—The running team of Rescue Hook and Ladder company meet this evening in front of the west side engine house for practice—Captain Mahon invites all runners in the city, who desire to join the team to report to him this evening.

—Yesterday morning's Recorder—"The long eared animals took a lively run up Linn street." The same sheet, this morning—"We cannot but adhere to our belief that the mules ran or walked away." Try once more, neighbor, and you may get the item correct.

—Milwaukee and Franklin streets, and the corn exchange were full of people last evening, to listen to the music of the Bower City band, and all waited until the entire programme was finished. The band played some of their best pieces, and the people were greatly pleased with the entertainment.

—This morning a painter at work painting Mr. Burdick's barn on Dodge street, fifth ward, was somewhat bruised by a falling ladder. He was on the ladder painting, when the ladder slipped on the side of the barn and fell to the ground carrying him with it. The man, whose name we could not ascertain, received several bruises on the head, none of which were serious.

—Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Ludolph, on South Jackson street, fourth ward, last evening, and claimed their little infant son as its victim. The little babe was only ten months old, and had been sick only a few days with summer complaint. The family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad affliction. The funeral will take place at the house to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock.

—The Beloit Free Press says: "The law firm of Winans & Fethers, of Janesville, has been changed and strengthened by the admission to the firm of Mr. Malcolm G. Jeffris. Mr. J. was admitted to the bar last week after successfully undergoing a very thorough examination. Messrs. Winans & Fethers have long been recognized as among the leading lawyers of the state, and during the last few years have successfully managed many difficult and intricate cases before the courts."

—A Main street grocery clerk, the other day was experiencing rather dull trade, in fact he only received one order for goods, and that was well out in the suburbs; but as the grocery house always deliver goods in any part of the city, the clerk hitched up the horse to a delivery wagon, and drove to the customer's home, went up to the kitchen door, and when he heard the hired girl coming to answer his alarm, he realized that he had neglected to bring along the goods ordered,—in fact he had neglected to put them up at the store. He evidently had been out to an ice cream party the night before.

—Just about the size of it from the Beloit Free Press: The discovery has just been made by some mousing genius of Janesville—understood to be a Recorder man—that there are two Janesvilles in Rock county instead of one. In fact, that Janesville is a pair of twins. The Free Press man has read the remarks in the Recorder and the Gazette and is left utterly stranded in mind. Should intellects like "them air" often engage in deadly conflict, lunatic asylums would enjoy a boom in the boarding business. If the Free Press was to be chosen referee to settle the dispute, it would incline to the opinion that Janesville was, indeed, twins, but that the "city" died when it was quite young.

—Chief Engineer T. T. Croft was in Chicago last Tuesday, and was present at the fire in the Western Union telegraph company's building. Chief Croft was given every opportunity to witness the operations of the Chicago fire department, being well acquainted with many of the officers. He says it was perfectly wonderful to see the quick work performed by the men, and the deluge of water poured into the building. The largest and most powerful engines in the city were at work on this fire, and two of these engines put a two and a half inch stream of water on the top of the sixth story with ease, and the fireman swarmed around on the outside walls like so many cats. Chief Croft returned home last evening.

—Messrs. T. W. Wallis & Co., jewelers, opposite the postoffice, have placed in their front window a neat and novel sign, it being a large glass clock dial. The figures on the dial as well as time fingers are finished in gold, and behind this dial the moving gear of an ordinary clock is placed in running order, which moves the large time indicator on the glass dial. In the night time the dial is illuminated by a gas jet, and makes a very handsome as well as useful ornament for the show window. Messrs Wallis & Co. announce by a small card attached at the bottom of the dial, "correct time." This kind of an illuminated time piece is a new thing in this city, and the public will heartily appreciate the enterprise of the proprietors of this store.

DR. BIGLOW.

A Whisky Crank in the Detective Service of the Government.

He was ushered into the august presence of the municipal court by the city marshal, and in answer to a question relating to his identity, said his name was Dr. L. P. Biglow, of Waukesha; that he was in the employment of the United States.

Doctor, I suppose, by your appearance, that you are laboring to reduce the public debt," remarked the court.

Well, not exactly, but then I am accomplishing something in that way," responded the doctor.

The court—Well, what are you doing for the government of the United States.

The doctor—I am in the detective service.

The court—Ah! Where ae your papers

Doctor—At home, in Waukesha. I have not had them with me in five years. I came down here about a week ago to work up a case, and if Marshal Hogan had not pulled me in last night, when I almost had my work finished, I would have captured my man and been out of town.

Here Marshal Hogan stepped in and stated that he found the doctor lying on the sidewalk on Jackson street, near Croft & Whiton's drugstore, too drunk to care for himself, and he took him in.

Doctor—Now, Marshal Hogan, you know that is not so. I told you that I was laying for a man, and asked you to go away and let me alone.

Marshal—laughing—I know you did, doctor.

The Court,—Doctor, you are somewhat nervous to-day.

Doctor—My work will make any man nervous.

The Court—That's so. Doctor, your face is somewhat disfigured, how did it happen?

The Doctor—Well, your honor, the other day, in Waukesha, I ran my face against a buggy.

The Court—Were you running for the government when it happened?

Doctor—No sir.

The Court—How long will it take you to close up your business here for the government?

The Doctor—I don't know. I was nearly through last night when the marshal stepped up and arrested me, and I cannot tell now how long it will take to close up.

The Court—Well Doctor, I guess you had better go down and interview Sheriff Harper, and I will give you credentials to engage with him for five days, should he give you anything to eat beside bread and water you will be that much ahead.

The doctor left, with the marshal close by to see that he went to the sheriff's office.

This much for a crank—wholly chargeable to poor whisky.

N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir cures coughs, colds and consumption. Sold by Stearns & Baker.

Personal.

—Mrs. John Zeininger and daughter Gertie, of Madison, are in the city, visiting Mr. Zeininger's mother.

—Dr. D. H. Williams, of Chicago, came up last evening, to attend the funeral of the late Miss Tessie Anderson.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. T. King, who have been visiting relatives and friends in this city for some few weeks, have returned to Webster City, Iowa, their home.

—Supervisor R. J. Burdge, of Beloit, was in the city to-day, attending to some needed repairs at the county jail. Mr. Burdge is chairman of the county building committee.

—Mr. B. H. Baldwin, the yardmaster of the Chicago and Northwestern railway company, in this city, contemplates starting on a trip to the Eastern and New England States next week.

—Mr. A. W. Baumun and family, and Mr. John Dewey and family, who have been spending the past two days at Turtle lake, returned home last evening, more than pleased with the time spent.

—Mr. James H. Rolfe, of Chicago, is visiting with his sister, Miss Mary Rolfe. Mr. Rolfe was once one of Janesville's high school boys, he is now keeper of the United States bonded warehouse, and business manager of the cold storage warehouse company, of Chicago.

A large proportion of the Baking Powder sold is fearfully adulterated. A strictly pure Baking Powder is made of two articles only, viz: BiCarb. Soda and Grape Cream Tartar. No other ingredients can be found in DeLaud's Chemical Baking Powder.

Attractions for the Coming Fair.

Secretary Vankirk is bound to make the Rock county fair a success if special attraction can help in that way. Among the many special features to be added in the way of extra amusement for the people, will be Prof. L. B. Wyant's museum, arrangements having been completed for the professor to be on the fair ground during the fair, and his museum will be open to the free inspection of all patrons of the county fair. This museum embraces the largest collection of natural curiosities in the west. It was on the fair grounds last season and those who took occasion to examine the thousands of natural curiosities contained in the collection then on exhibition, expressed themselves greatly pleased with the exhibit. This year Prof. Wyant has added many new specimens to his museum, and now no doubt has the largest collection of the kind in the county on public exhibition. All should see it at the county fair.

Prof. Horsford's Baking Powder.

SUPERIOR AND SCIENTIFIC.

DR. CHARLES S. GAUNTT, Professor of Chemistry in Philadelphia University says: "I regard it as a superior and highly scientific preparation."

Tessie Anderson's Funeral.

The funeral of Tessie Anderson, whose death was announced in last evening's Gazette, took place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Anderson, on North Main street, at four o'clock this afternoon. The funeral service was conducted Rev. A. J. Mead, presiding elder of the Methodist church.

There was a beautiful display of floral tributes, among a floral mat of evergreen upon which the name "Tessie" appeared in handsome flowers, a large floral cross wreaths, anchors and pyramids. The services were attended by a large number of sympathizing friends of the deceased. The bearers consisted of six young ladies, school mates of the deceased, dressed in white, and six young men. The lady bearers were—Misses Susie Harlow, Pauline Smith, Lulu Bates, Kittie Carle, Edna Hill and Della Farquharson, and the gentlemen were Messrs. John Rogers, Fred Crouse, Irish Kent, Ed. Griswold, George B. Wright, George S. Wright and Fred Burr. The choir of the Court Street M. E. church rendered the song service.

The remains were placed in a handsome white casket, upon the plate was engraved "Died, August 22d 1883, Tessie Anderson, aged 17 years." The remains were laid at rest in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Body Recovered.

The body of Mr. George Butts' little son, an account of whose drowning was published in Saturday's Gazette, was found this morning floating in the river about a mile below the place where the little boy fell into the treacherous river. The body was immediately taken to the home of Mr. George Butts, at Milton Junction. We have not learned any further particulars.

In the Park.

The east side music committee have engaged the Bower City band to give another open air concert in the court house park on to-morrow evening, which will perhaps be the last one in the park by this band this season. The following programme has been arranged for the occasion:

1. Quick March..........Skidmore Guards
2. Waltz..........13th Andante
3. Cornet Polka..........Geraldine
4. Fantasia..........Dancer's Dream
5. Polka..........Gold and Silver
6. Grand March..........Silver Trumpets
7. Serenade..........Pleasant Dreams
8. Galop..........Home Run

The nutritive properties of COLDEN'S LIQUID BEEF TONIC sustain the body without solid food. Colden's; no other.

LOST. "All my dyspeptic troubles since I used N. K. Brown's Ess. Jamaica Ginger." "N. K.'s."

The Weather.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 51 degrees above zero. Clear—northwest wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 80 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with a north wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 67 and 82 degrees above zero.

WASHINGTON, August 24, 1 a. m.—The following are the indications for to-day: Upper Lake Region—Fair weather, variable winds mostly westerly, rising followed by falling barometer, stationary or rising temperature.

Our readers will find all the medicines advertised in this paper at Prentice & Evenson's drug store, opposite the post-office. They keep all the principal patent medicines in the market, and undoubtedly have the largest stock in the city.

Threw Away His Crutches.

Slade, the Maori, who appeared so indifferent in the results of a visit from one of Governor Crittenden's marshals, has gathered up his dumb-bells, sand-bags and trainer, and left Independence for some unknown point.

An assignment was filed by Charles H. Bishop & Co., of Cincinnati, after eight mortgages on their real estate had been recorded. Their embarrassment arises from speculations in whisky and grain, and their liabilities are heavy.

The Boston firemen arranged to show a visiting company from Vermont the workings of the department, at Fort Hill square. When the apparatus reached the spot it was confronted by a genuine blaze in the chemical works of Billings & Clapp, where damage to the amount of $50,000 was inflicted.

An entertaining dispatch from Battle Creek, in regard to the Seventh Day Adventists, states that doubt is apparent as to the inspiration of Mrs. White, who has revealed God's will to the band for thirty-five years, and that dissensions are growing which may have serious effects on the unity of the body.

A decided breeze has been generated in Europe by a recent article in The North German Gazette declaring that France alone threatens the peace of the continent. In addition to the political excitement kindled by the editorial in question, there was a marked fall in prices on the bourses of Paris, Vienna and Berlin.

This is a very bad season for St. Louis girls. The latest unfortunate is Miss Annie Beggs, now visiting at Council Bluffs, who went to her room at dark only to be seized by a strange man, gagged, pinioned and threatened with death if she spoke. But just then her abductor grew alarmed at some noises in the house, and she freed her mouth and frightened him away by screams.

Representatives of over one hundred mercantile houses of Chicago met to organize a freight bureau and employ a competent agent to protect the commercial interests of the city against arbitrary freight rules. Franklin MacVeagh stated that it had become necessary to have representatives at the councils of freight agents, who are constantly litigating on matters of vital importance to the mercantile community.
